Campo ai Sassi 2001

Rosso di Montalcino DOC

Campo ai Sassi Rosso di Montalcino displays the same characteristics as Brunello, but in a more youthful, less complicated manner. It is produced from the same grape, Sangiovese, but from vineyards with vines that have very deep roots and yield wines which are aromatic and elegant, and less tannic than the Brunello.

Climatic trend

Harvest of the Sangiovese at Castel Giocondo began during the final ten days of September and ended on October 12th. The climatic conditions in September and October proved excellent: the rainfall in mid-September interrupted a dry spell, and with the sunshine of October, the grapes were perfectly healthy and dry by the time they reached the winery. Though the production quantity was considerably lower, the quality of the output is expected to be outstanding. The characteristics of the Castel Giocondo terrain are once again apparent in this year's production: the Sangiovese has a degree of alcohol as high as 14° with very intense colours and a potent structure.
