Campo ai Sassi 2002

Rosso di Montalcino DOC

Campo ai Sassi Rosso di Montalcino displays the same characteristics as Brunello, but in a more youthful, less complicated manner. It is produced from the same grape, Sangiovese, but from vineyards with vines that have very deep roots and yield wines which are aromatic and elegant, and less tannic than the Brunello.

Climatic trend

The grapes benefited from sunny days, and favorable weather at the end of the summer and beginning of the fall. The climatic conditions improved decisively during the last few weeks, allowing for an attentive harvesting and selection of the grapes. At the beginning of September, the grapes showed an excellent level of ripeness. Harvest began during the first few days of September, slightly later than in the past few years in which the harvest had been slightly early. At the Castel Giocondo, rigorous selections were effected; in the vineyard, the harvest was differentiated, carried out in different phases within the same vineyard, depending on the degree of ripeness of the grapes, in order to obtain the exact ripeness, and quality desired. A meticulous process of selection bunch by bunch was carried out, which will undoubtedly be decisive in the quality of the wines.
