Terre More 2013

Maremma Toscana Cabernet DOC

Terre More, a careful blend of Cabernet Sauvignon, Merlot, Cabernet Franc, and Syrah, is a rich, intense wine that is modern in style yet eloquently expressive of the growing area it represents.

Climatic trend

Tenuta dell'Ammiraglia did not see the beginning of vine growth until the first few days of April for the early-developing varieties and in mid-April for the later varieties, some 15 days later than in 2012. July ushered in temperatures that held to seasonal averages, and although conditions were dry, the vines made use of groundwater reserves built up over the preceding seasons, so that the clusters developed well. Intense sun characterised August, although temperatures were not excessive; the first week, which was actually the hottest of the season, brought the start of veraison. Overall conditions of sun and heat favoured optimal ripening and concentration in the fruit. Significant day-night temperature differentials in September, as well as lack of rainfall, resulted in rich concentrations of polyphenolic and aromatic compounds, and in grapes that were in ideal physical condition.
